Dear Sam:

I was terribly sorry to fail you in Miami. I took two colleagues to the Everglades with intentions of returning for the evening meeting with you and your group. It was clear by the time we got to Flamingo that we weren't going to make it back, and so we spent the night there. I also had not brought with me the details of the place of your meeting and so was unable to contact you. Again, I'm very sorry to have missed this commitment. If there is anything I can do in terms of reviewing your plans and recommendations, please let me know.

Cordially,

Henry Blackburn
