Prof. James V. Neel, Chairman
Department of Human Genetics
University of Michigan Medical School
Ann Arbor, Michigan

Dear Dr. Neel:

I am looking at familiar aggregations of blood pressure and of detailed electrocardiographic measurements in a Jura community in Switzerland.

Our mutual friend Fred Epstein suggested that it might be useful for me to know the form and approach of Dr. Sing's analysis, so that we might look at our material in the same way as that from Tecumseh.

Whatever part of your classifications and analytical programs is described in writing, I would be most grateful to see. I, of course, would not want your colleagues to spend an inordinate amount of time explaining your approach, if it is not yet written up.

Cordially,

Henry Blackburn, M.D.
