FROM: Henry Blackburn

I know you probably took responsibility for sending Chapter 7 Cancer Section to me and to Potter, possibly without even Sushma's condensation. So, we understand there may be little recourse. But for your information, Potter's confidential reaction is:

- 1) that he wouldn't accept this literature review, as is, from a graduate student;
- 2) that you should have written it and had others edit it (agree);
- 3) that the gap on pancreas/cancer is unacceptable;
- 4) that the animal cancer-lipid stuff seems to be a collection of what Carroll recalls and not a systematic review; and
- 5) that we surely should have had others (Willeit and as I long ago suggested to you, Potter), as formal reviewers and earlier on.

The only other thing we are doing is Potter's calling G. Howe as they are good colleagues. Hope it won't upset things. I would like my other FAX to go to chairpersons, but suspect you might prefer it not come from here.
