

Carres - Walker

UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA
TWIN CITIES

Laboratory of Physiological Hygiene
School of Public Health
Stadium Gate 27
611 Beacon Street S.E.
Minneapolis, Minnesota 55455

November 11, 1981

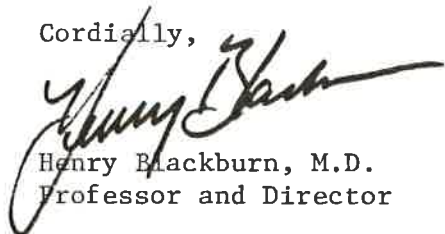

Professor Alan Walker
Department of Cell Biology & Anatomy
Johns Hopkins University
Medical School
725 Wolfe Street
Baltimore, MD 21205

Dear Alan:

I look forward to attending your session at the American Association for the Advancement of Science in January. I certainly do not impose the enclosed compendium on you. But it may be useful for your files in that it collects a lot of information in one place. Any responses you have to the first section on anthropology, of course, I would enjoy. I'm much aware of the danger of superficiality in such synthesis.

I am sorry to have missed the New York FROM events with you and Richard Leakey of the past week, but I am in the throes of defining my School's goals and missions in the presence of cutbacks in federal and state funds. You know the problem, I'm sure.

Cordially,

Henry Blackburn, M.D.
Professor and Director

HB:lr enc.

Rome ms.