Dear Dr. Blackburn:

Just a note to thank you for the articles you've recently sent: Determinants of individual and population blood pressure levels, The primary prevention of high blood pressure: a population approach, and Heart attacks and the hunter-gatherer. For the past several months our editor at Harper and Row has been "encouraging" us to work industriously on The Paleolithic Prescription so I haven't had an opportunity to put our potential joint paper on "Old Horizons for Nutrition Research" together. Fortunately, I anticipate a lull in the book work early next year and, at that point, I'll sent you a draft so you can modify and improve it.

Thanks for your continuing interest. I wish you the best for the holiday season and I'll be in touch early next year.

Sincerely yours,

S. Boyd Eaton MD
