Dear Bill:

It was delightful to hear from you. You will no longer be plied with voluminous lists from Minnesota as you enjoy your Lake District retirement.

I agree, it's uncomfortable to get to the age where one is losing good colleagues. I'm sure Archie was especially close for you. I'm sorry I never got to know him well, but enjoyed brief contacts.

I'm just back from the celebration of the 70th birthday of Martti Karvonen and his remarkable contributions to the early development of cardiovascular epidemiology, both in the science and in the careers of its second generation. A delightful affair.

It was good to get your note.

Cordially,

Henry Blackburn, MD
Professor and Director
