

December 23, 1974

Geoffrey Rose, M.D.
St. Mary's Hospital Medical School
University of London
Epidemiology Dept.
D2a788, W. 2, ENGLAND

Dear Geoff:

You're always down to earth, honest and practical in your final summaries. But if I quote you correctly that intervention should be tailored to the risk, and you have demonstrated the excess risk associated with the ECG, then why no ECG?

It was good to see and hear you. May I have recent reprints and preprints?

Regards,

Henry Blackburn, M.D.

HB/kn
Encl.

P.C. Amsterdam